The intention of the session is to give frontline workers from employment industry agencies a better understanding of how to work with different mental health community agencies, how to properly refer clients to these agencies and if possible, to give those frontline workers a better understanding of the functional limitations of shared clients.

The purpose of the mental health services panel is to clarify the roles of the different mental health community agencies active in our community and to speak to the process of accessing those services. A brief presentation from local mental health agencies will be followed by a Question and Answer session.
